Enjoy two EXHIBITIONS at the Museum of the San Rafael!

- The Way We Worked is a traveling Smithsonian exhibition that explores the central place of work in American culture by tracing changes affecting our workplaces & workforce over the last 150 years.
- Emery County Works: 1880-1980 explores how the work that drives Emery County is connected in surprising ways – from interdependent industries to residents who wear many professional hats to the forgotten work that has always held our local communities together.

Women of Work Panel Conversation

It's a world where work strongly defines us and where notions of 'women's work' have greatly changed. Help us welcome three Emery County women – Shanna Magnuson, Mary Huntington, and Amanda O'Neil – as they speak about their jobs, their successes and struggles in the workplace, and the impact of changing times on the way they make a living. Light refreshments will be served.

The Way We Worked, an exhibition created by the National Archives, is part of Museum on Main Street, a collaboration between the Smithsonian Institution and Utah Humanities, touring in partnership with the Museum of the San Rafael
