Folklore receives grant

Some $40,000 in grant money will provide humanities projects through Utah Humanities Council. The council receives a total grant of $272,000 from the United States Endowment for the Humanities.

The council awarded a project exploring local folklore to Richfield-based Utah Humanities Council.

"In the eyes of the thousands of Utahns who have participated during his career, Jim has been an advocate, a relentless negotiator, a prolific writer, a financial wizard, and a visionary leader," said Richard Northrop, UHC executive director.

"He has been a tireless advocate of all the people of Utah," said Northrop. "We are honored to have been a part of Jim's story, and we are proud to continue his work in the years to come."
