Teenage granddaughter racing to reach the top

Savannah Rickli, left, and Rebecca Greek celebrate after reaching the summit during the race. Rickli, at age 16, is ready to be the youngest finisher in the history of the climb, which is described as the second oldest mass race in the United States — behind The Boston Marathon — to be held each year, according to event organizers.

The Razorback Ridge Fire is burning in the northern Sanpete County wilderness area near Torrey, Utah.

Savannah Rickli, granddaughter of Richfield resident Delphine Hutt, came in on top in the Pikes Peak International Hill Climb, which she finished the fastest in the past 131 minutes earlier this spring.

The event is slated to begin at 7:30 a.m. Saturday at “The Birches” at Roost Bookstore, 185 West Main St., Gunnison.
