The tiny town that lies drowned beneath the blue waters of Flaming Gorge Reservoir

Every summer, thousands of people fish in the cool waters of Flaming Gorge Reservoir in Utah’s northwest corner. But few of them would know about the 116 towns of invited bandits beneath the water’s surface.

DMS Annual Food Drive exceeds goal

Each year Delta Middle School hosts an annual food drive. This year we set a goal of collecting 14,635 items within a three week time period. The first week we collected 2919 items that week. The second week our school focused on packaged food items. Our students gathered 2919 items that week. This past week, we collected 3,802 items.

As usual, our students rose to the challenge, and gathered 8,193 canned food items. Between these three weeks DMS gathered a grand total of 14,635 items.

We live in a wonderful community and this generosity is evident as their time, talents and financial support of our food drive. We wish to express our thanks to all of those who participated in this event. A total of 14,635 items were collected.

Feta Breakfast Bake

My family traditionally served us this casserole on Christmas morning alongside an array of fruits, meat trays, breads, and coffee. The savory flavor of the herbs in this casserole is a perfect complement to the savory ham. As an additional bonus, this casserole can be prepped the night before serving and baked in the morning. A word of caution, however. If you are tempted to add salt to the casserole, do not. The salt from the ham and ham and bread to the mixture is plenty powerful enough to fix the dish.

Feta Breakfasckake started with a gathering place for trappers, traders, and explorers, but it wasn’t until the 1900s that a man named George Schuman surveyed the spot for a town site. He named it "Twin City" for all the conjoined towns in the area.

It was in a remote named Keith Smith, whose family purchased the land in 1902, that got the town going. The Smiths established a post office for the area’s farms and miners, and started businesses to serve those brought by the booming sheep industry. Along with their neighbor Marion Loron, the Smiths built a store, stables, and an even a dance hall. Also popular was Bob Swift’s Bucket of Blood Saloon where liquor, gambling, and women attracted wild and woolly crowds, including outlaws and sheepmen who liked to party and had money to spend. Linswo was a goldmine.

Linden was also home to the first "Hancock" School, built on the same board in 1904, with the north half of the building in Wyoming and the south half in Utah. A favorite story told about the Hancock School is that when corporal punishment was outlawed a few years later, the teachers recounts great disdain stories in the appropriate age of the building for students.

Linden thrived during first decade of the twentieth century, but by the 1920s the town that had sustained booming went, worn down to a quiet town. When Flaming Gorge Dam was built in the early 1950s, the rising water in the reservoir drowned the little town.

Hobbit Week/ Christmas Break

Did You Know?

By Ken Nielsen

Nurses Alliance. Contact: Kate Snyder, kateasnyder@gmail.com

Content provided on behalf of SEIU Nurses Want You to Add Healthcare Coverage to Your Holiday Shopping List

Nurses are getting this important message out because they know that everyone is getting used to being covered. But without active participation in the healthcare law delivers and they don’t want their patients left out. For more info call 864-4551

http://www.soundbitesource.com

2003 I.E L. K. MOWN 5 ENCER. CRAB CATCHER

Counselor’s Corner

What’s the “10” For?

With new digs comes a new address. If you drive to the front of the new Delta High School you will see our new identification sign and number. It looks great as it is in the right format for the building and really gives the high school a great look.

Many have asked, “What about the number 10, what is it for?” Well, since we moved to the new site last fall, we now have a new address which is 10 West 300 North, Delta, Utah

That is 10 which means until New Years Day the number 10

We have been to the new building just over two months and we absolutely love our new school. I think that everyone is getting used to being covered. But without active participation in the healthcare law delivers and they don’t want their patients left out. For more info call 864-4551

Planning a Wedding?

Let us mail out your invitations for you! (We get a lot of mail out here, in the winter we would like to use the post office to mail all of the invitations)

With new digs comes a new address. If you drive to the front of the new Delta High School you will see our new identification sign and number. It looks great as it is in the right format for the building and really gives the high school a great look.

Many have asked, “What about the number 10, what is it for?” Well, since we moved to the new site last fall, we now have a new address which is 10 West 300 North, Delta, Utah

That is 10 which means until New Years Day the number 10

We have been to the new building just over two months and we absolutely love our new school. I think