Exhibit celebrating the roots of American music to go on display at Museum of Moab

The exhibit explores the musical traditions of the major ethno-musical traditions from west African, Latin, and Native American cultures. The exhibit aims to bring these traditions to life through music, video, and performance. The exhibit will feature various musical instruments, including those from the Moab area and other regions of Utah.

About the Museum of Moab

The Museum of Moab is a non-profit organization dedicated to preserving and sharing the history and culture of the Moab area. The museum has a collection of artifacts and exhibits that highlight the unique history and culture of the region. The museum is located in Moab, Utah, and is open to the public.

Contact Information

Museum of Moab
405 4th Street
Moab, UT 84532
(435) 259-3210
moabmuseum.org

---

Carbon SWAT team earns compliments for role in manhunt

The Carbon County Sheriff's Office SWAT team was praised for their role in a recent manhunt. The team successfully apprehended a suspect who had eluded authorities for several days. The team's quick response and effective tactics were commended by law enforcement officials.

---

Sevier school lunch program holding the line on meal costs

Sevier School District is committed to providing nutritious meals to its students. The district has implemented several strategies to keep meal costs affordable, including working with local food banks and partners to secure donated food. The district has also partnered with local businesses to offer meal discounts to families in need.

---

Performing arts center moving closer to final shape

Centerville - Despite the months of work still ahead, it's getting easier to envision the Performing Arts Center. The facility is expected to be complete by next year, according to project managers. The center will be a community hub, offering a variety of arts and entertainment options. The center will also house a state-of-the-art theater.